

ATTENTION

Suspected Measles Case Reported On-Campus!!

A University student is suspected to have contracted Measles. If you suspect that you have measles (Symptoms of measles include: high fever, cough and runny nose, rash on the head and face, etc.), it is very important that you call clinic/ hospital before you consider going to the clinic or any emergency department.

(* Please contact Health Administration Center, University of the Ryukyus, if you could have a case of the measles and visit a doctor.)

If you are infected with Measles, you must stay home until after 3 days fever declined. Please take enough rest to recover soon and prevent from spreading virus to people around you.

Measles is highly contagious and spread through the air. Therefore, wash your hands with alcohol every time you return from outside.

Please contact the Health Administration Center for more information.

➤ Health Administration Center TEL:098-895-8144